

STUDENT BODY DIVIDED

Radical Move at the University of Utah.

Charged With Bringing Discredit on the School.

Students of the U. of U. Proper Determine to Be More Exclusive in the Future.

The college students and the preparatory students of the University met for a last time yesterday morning in a joint student body meeting, at which the preparatory students were informed by Acting Chairman George Riser that the college students had decided to withdraw from the general student body organization. The officers of the old student body, who were elected less than two months ago in one of the most spirited meetings ever held at the hill school, then quietly handed in their resignations and were honorably released. The chairman requested that the college students adjourn to room 22 for the purpose of effecting their new organization and advised the preparatory students to remain in the assembly hall and do likewise.

As soon as the college members reconvened Oscar Carlson, representing the committee previously appointed to draft a new constitution, read the committee's report. The new constitution had only a few necessary changes from the one recently adopted by the general student body, and was consequently readily adopted. On the motion of L. E. Calkins, all the officers of the now dissolved student body were elected to their former positions in the new organization. The new organization, "The Student Body of the University of Utah," is composed of the students of the art school, of the mining school and the fourth-year normals. A meeting will be held next Monday, at which each of these departments will elect a representative to the executive committee.

After listening to a short speech from President Thomas, the preparatory students elected R. Phoenix temporary chairman and Elsie Ward secretary. The following members were then elected as a committee to draft a new constitution: W. E. Davis, W. H. James, Dabey Clark and E. H. Smith.

This movement is for the purpose of making a plain distinction between the University student proper and the preparatory students, with the ultimate view of raising the public estimate of the standard of the University. The preparatory students will make the lines of distinction very clear, by compelling preparatory students to forego the privilege of wearing "Varsity" pins and demanding that they be known and characterized themselves as preparatory students. Hereafter preparatory students have ranked in the public eye on the same level as regular "Varsity" students, and often when some Harvard or Yale man hears some eighth-grade graduate call himself a "University student" he begins wondering what sort of an institution the University of Utah is. He does not know that these students are only preparatory students and have three more years of schooling before they can enter the University proper. The aim of this new movement is to blot out this erroneous opinion and place the University in a proper light before the public.

President Kingsbury states that it is only a question of time when the preparatory school will be entirely abolished in favor of the high schools now rapidly increasing throughout the State.

HELP FOR THE POOR.

What the County Authorities Did in 1903 to Help Along the Indigents.

County Commissioner H. N. Standish, who, as chairman of the Pauper committee, looks after the poor of the county, has just finished his report for the year past. The report shows the county to be in better condition as regards the amount expended in aiding families in destitute circumstances than it has been for the past five years. The average amount given to poor families in merchandise and provisions during the past five years was $14,789.1, while that for last year was $12,495.6, or $2,293.5 less than the average. The report shows this improved condition notwithstanding that the county has had to care for a large number of people that it has not had to in previous years. The last Legislature passed a law requiring the county to pay for all indigent cases placed under quarantine both in the city and elsewhere in the county. The city formerly had to pay for the care of its own indigent cases.

Besides the $12,495.6 expended by the county for merchandise during the past year, $3068.50 was given out in cash, making the total expended $15,563.10. This is exclusive of cases cared for at the county infirmary and medicine, etc., furnished by the County Board of Health. The number of families benefited was 631, consisting of 1813 persons. The average amount received by each family was $21.94, and by each person $2.35. Classified as to residence, 49 families of 155 persons live in Salt Lake City and 61 families of 258 persons elsewhere in the county. During the year 111 individuals were furnished with transportation and sent out of the county.
